

CORRECTIONS RISK CONTROL SERVICES NOW AVAILABLE

J.A. Montgomery is pleased to announce the availability of a dedicated Corrections Risk Control Consultant to help correctional facilities reduce risk, strengthen safety, support staff wellness, and improve overall operational effectiveness. Through practical guidance, consultation, training, and risk-control resources, this service is designed to assist correctional leaders in proactively addressing the complex challenges affecting employees, incarcerated individuals, facility security, compliance, and the surrounding community.

Ron Edwards will serve as the Corrections Risk Control Consultant and be available to assist Wardens, command-level personnel, supervisors, and other correctional professionals with practical guidance, consultation, and resources to mitigate risk and improve overall facility operations. Ron's support may include reviewing risk factors and operational concerns, discussing emerging trends, providing information regarding accreditation and recognized correctional standards, and helping agencies identify opportunities for improvement.

Ron brings extensive experience in corrections leadership, including senior-level responsibility for facility operations, staff management, policy development, training, accreditation, crisis response, and organizational improvement. His background provides correctional leaders with practical, field-informed insight into the operational, safety, wellness, and compliance challenges facing today's correctional facilities.

Corrections Risk Control services may include:

- Facility-specific consultations to identify risks, vulnerabilities, and opportunities for improvement.
- Review of incident trends, operational concerns, and emerging correctional risk factors.
- Sample policies, procedures, and guidance related to correctional operations and risk reduction.
- Training sessions on topics such as crisis intervention, conflict resolution, de-escalation, staff wellness, and safety practices.
- Information and support related to accreditation, recognized correctional standards, and best practices.

These services are intended to support safer operations, reduce liability exposures, promote employee wellness, and reinforce a culture of professionalism and accountability.

Ron will be working with Wardens and correctional leaders to discuss facility-specific needs, share available resources, and provide guidance on sample policies, training options, accreditation-related information, and other risk control services for corrections. Wardens and correctional professionals are encouraged to contact Ron to learn more about how these services can support safer operations, employee wellness, and operational excellence.

Contact: Ron Edwards, Corrections Risk Control Consultant | redwards@jamontgomery.com | 908-507-0867